MERZ AESTHETICS

Our Vision at Merz is to become the most Admired, Trusted and Innovative Aesthetics and Neurotoxin Company in the world. We plan to deliver in line with that Vision by providing UK and Irish aesthetic practitioners access to high level educational meetings and unrivalled opportunities to advance their professional knowledge and skillsets.

It is with great pleasure that we can support you with this educational meeting , with Simon Ravichandran. Simon is an experienced aesthetic doctor and ENT surgeon with a deep interest in aesthetic medicine. Simon is a Director of Clinetix Rejuvenation and the founder and president of the Association of Scottish Aesthetic Practitioners, a non profit organisation that brings aesthetic practitioners together to promote good practice and education. Simon also heads the Advanced Facial Anatomy Cadaveric training programme at the University of Glasgow. Simon aims to deliver high quality, relevant and practical training opportunities, to ensure patients get the best from their aesthetic practitioners.

This meeting is aimed at practitioners injecting Botulinum Toxin type A in their practice, which places a strong emphasis of high-quality education and interactive learning. Devised and led by Mr Ravichandran, this educational meeting aims to offer you the chance to expand your knowledge of the scientific and clinical considerations of Botulinum Toxin type A, while keeping patient safety and satisfaction at the heart of your practice. Mr Ravichandran will also explore clinical surface anatomy, i.e. how to identify muscles, depths to inject and specific techniques for optimum patient outcomes.
